 Historic Plant Collections

CONSORTIUM HERBARIUM RECORDS

The Consortium of California Herbaria was developed to serve as a gateway to information from California vascular plant specimens that are housed in herbaria throughout the state. The database now includes information from more than 847,000 specimens, all searchable through a single interface. Originally developed around botanical collections from University of California herbaria, the consortium continues to grow as more collections are added. Currently, twelve collections are accessible through this interface. The participating institutions cooperate under the guidelines of a Memorandum of Understanding. Participation as a data provider to the Consortium database is open to California herbaria that meet these Minimum Requirements for data inclusion. The data included in this database are a snapshot of the California vascular plant collections at partner institutions. More recent data may be available through the individual herbaria.

The collections listed below show an interesting cross-section of both rare and common plant species, include a range of botanical collectors from virtually unknown hobbyists, to Park staff and world-renowned botanists, and illustrate a long history of botanical interest in the Griffith Park area.
